OVERVIEW

The engagement.

ELMO's HR community is asking the same questions every HR function in Australia is asking: where do we start with AI, what does a safe adoption pathway look like, and what does it mean for how our teams work? This engagement gives ELMO a practical, credible answer to put in front of its clients.

Cheneval Advisory will design and deliver a two-hour facilitated roundtable for HR leaders from ELMO's client community, supported by a pre-session survey and a co-branded workshop booklet of frameworks and templates attendees can use immediately. The session is practitioner-led and hands-on, built from real enterprise adoption work rather than theory.

Not in scope: ongoing advisory to attendees or their organisations, ELMO product training or product content, and event logistics including venue, catering, AV and attendee recruitment, which sit with the ELMO team.

SCOPE OF WORK

Three deliverables.

1. PRE-ROUNDTABLE SURVEY Sent to attendees ahead of the session	A short survey designed by Cheneval Advisory, surfacing attendees' biggest questions about AI and where each organisation sits today: usage, confidence, blockers and priorities. Results shape the session content, so the roundtable answers the questions actually in the room, and are summarised back to ELMO as audience insights.
2. THE ROUNDTABLE Two hours, facilitated by Jami	A 60 to 90 minute practical workshop built around what the survey surfaces: the adoption pathway, finding meaningful use cases, what time savings realistically look like, and how to work with AI safely. Hands-on, not a lecture. Attendees work on their own use cases in the room. Dedicated open Q&A and discussion time, so HR leaders can test their specific situations against a practitioner.

3. WORKSHOP BOOKLET Co-branded take-home for every attendee	Frameworks matched to the needs of the room, drawn from: the five-part prompt template with HR worked examples, how to track the ROI of AI, how to run an AI Champions program, and use-case identification and workflow redesign tools. Cheneval Advisory is credited as author. ELMO may distribute the booklet to attendees and use it in follow-up communications with them.

WORKING ARRANGEMENTS

How we will work.

- Delivered in person in Sydney at a venue arranged by ELMO, or virtually if preferred.
- All materials are co-branded ELMO and Cheneval Advisory, with Cheneval Advisory credited as author and facilitator. This is a thought-leadership partnership, not ghost-written content.
- Cheneval Advisory does not take referral commissions and does not endorse specific products in session content, which keeps the advice independent and credible for attendees.
- Approximately four weeks' notice preferred for scheduling. Survey goes to attendees two weeks before the session.
- Cheneval Advisory holds an ABN and professional insurance, and can complete supplier onboarding as required.

Thank you for the conversation and the opportunity. I am looking forward to building something genuinely useful for ELMO's community.
